Aldo Lopez

Senior Vice President and
President, DataCom &
Specialty Solutions Division,
Molex

BIOGRAPHY

Since 2019, Aldo Lopez has been Senior Vice President and President of the DataCom & Specialty Solutions Division for Molex. In this role, he oversees DSS's operations across four global business units which collectively provide service to a roughly $15 billion market. Aldo sets the strategy for DSS as they navigate megatrends in 5G, AI, and cloud technology, and helps position the Division to capitalize on strong customer relationships in support of continuing growth.

An experienced leader with decades of organizational experience, Aldo joined Molex in 1988 as a Sales Manager in Molex Guadalajara and steadily advanced to become General Director of Molex de Mexico in 1999. In 2000, he transferred to the United States as a Regional Sales Manager before joining Molex's corporate team in Lisle, Illinois in 2005 as Director of Product Development and Marketing for the then Commercial Products Division.

Capitalizing on his talents in sales strategy and customer engagement, Aldo was promoted to Vice President of Sales for Asia Pacific South in 2009 before accepting the position of President of Global Sales and Marketing in 2014.

Aldo has a Bachelor of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering and Electrical Engineering from Universidad Autonoma de Guadalajara. He currently resides in Chicago.
